Thelieve that what is known as our "civil service" as it now exists, and has long existed, is a crime against popular government and civilization. I believe it has been the chief cause of many troubles and corruptions in the past, and, if not thoroughly reformed, will surely undermine and destroy our free institutions. I will not stop here to discuss the grounds of this belief. They have been long and well considered, and have produced absolute conviction. I always did abhor that old party slogan, "To the victor belongs the spoils." It was never suited to any but bandits and plunderers, and was always diagraceful to men claiming to be patriots and statesmen. It reduces the science of government to the tricks of gamblers, the bypocrisy of demagogues, and the blows of ruffians. I heard Mr. Hayes when, in his inaugural address, he announced his policy, or rather his purpose of civil service reform. To say I was pleased, would feebly express the truth. In spite of my conviction that he was not reesponsible, but owed his office to unmitigated frauds for which I believed he was not responsible, and unite my humble efforts in support of a policy which, in my judgment, promised escape to our whole country from all such words. We would largely more than the defeat by fraud of the popular will in a government which rests on the popular will. If there he a greater crime than the defeat by fraud of the popular will in a government which rests on the popular will. If there he a greater crime than the defeat by fraud of the popular will in a government which rests on the popular will. If there he a greater crime than the defeat by fraud of the popular will in a government which rests on the popular will. If there he a greater crime than the defeat by fraud of the popular will. If there he a greater crime than the defeat by fraud of the popular will. If there he a greater crime than the defeat by fraud of the popular will. If there he a greater crime than the defeat by fraud of the popular will. If there he a greater crime th I believe that what is known as our "civil service" as it now exists, and has

which, in my judgment, promised escape to our whole country from all stack wrongs in the future.

What is spoken of as Mr. Hayes Southern policy was of far less significance. This Southern policy was a necessity of the situation. Mr. Hayes had no power to avoid it. The end of carpet bag plundering in the South and disgrace to the Nation had come by events. Even General Grant saw that the army could no longer be used to settle contested elections in the States. tle contested elections in the States, and maintain robbers in power. But with our corrupt and ever corrupting civil service the situation was different. ness and patriotism of one worthy to be President. This exhibition gave me encouraged to seek with him greatly strengthened and encouraged these ways we know now that almost every person connected with the fraud has claimed or exercised special influence or favor at the White House. But the contrast may be stated in one short sentence. In Mr. Johnson's case all the criminals, real or suspected, were specially marked for punishment. In Mr. Hayes' case all the criminals, real or suspected, were specially marked for reward. I would be really glad if I could find men in office who are charged with crimes, and whom largely more than half of the people believe are guilty. In truth, I do not believe any intelligent man doubts their guilt. But I trust we have in this country a sufficient number of men of unsuspected honesty to fill the offices, and both the public character and the public interests require that the offices, and both the public character and the public interests require that only such men should be appointed. Besides, if these men were in truth innocent they would not have asked or accepted office from Mr. Hayes, for they would not have been willing to bring weakness upon the Administration nor discounts around the civil service. civil service the situation was different. This evil had its origin before the war. It had grown up under the nurture of the leaders of parties. It had pushed its brazen supporters and heneficiaries shows they care nothing for Mr. Hayes to the front seate of authority. It had grown and strengthened with every year, and seemed to have entrenched itself impregnably during General Grant'e administration. When, therefore, in the very day of its insolent power, in the very day of its insolent courtiers, and on the very field of its greatest sway, Mr. Hayes aunounced in clear and unfaltering voice his purpose to strangle this hydra of many heads, he seemed to exhibit the courage, manlished weakness upon the Administration nor disrepute upon the civil service. Their demands for office is the highest proof of their guilt; for it shows they care nothing for Mr. Hayes ——The mortgage debt of the South Carolina Railroad, according to Judge Bonds decision rendered at Baltimore, is $6,000,000, and its floating indebtedness not been satisfied with the office offered him has confessed the frauds. Every man of the guilty gang who has not confessed the frauds. Every man of the guilty gang who has not confessed the frauds. Every man of the guilty gang who has not confessed the frauds. Every man of the guilty gang who has not confessed the frauds. Every man of the guilty gang who has not confessed the frauds. Every man of the guilty gang who has not confessed the frauds. Every man of the guilty gang who has not confessed the frauds has been kept satisfied with office. Why should he confess whose confession would defeat his reward? How does it happen that those only are not entitled happen that those only are not entitled to belief who confess the frauds? And high hopes of the man, and several early, how does it happen that the credit of free and frank interviews which I felt none was denied until after confession

A Ringing Letter from Senator Hill, of Ga.

ATLANTA, GA., October 2, 1878.

My Dear Sir—In this day of much printing it is almost impossible to have one's opinions or motives correctly septemented. I suppose it is because misrepresentation is so easy. I have never east any "blitchness towards Mr. Hayes," because I have never felt any. I have never expressed any "blitchness towards Mr. Hayes," because I have never felt any. I have never commended any. I have never recommended any and have never recommended any and have never recommended any. I have never recommended any and have never recommended any. There is but one more step between our free institutions and destruction. The Government has become identified with fraud, and is administered by the authors of fraud. If the people shall fail to repudiate the fraud and its authors about the state of the state I would be really glad if I could find some excuse, some apology, or some palliation for the course Mr. Hayes has pursued in this matter. But, after full consideration, I can find none. It is no palliation to say that assassination was a greator crime than fraud. Both were crimes. If it is right to reward crime at all, then the greatest crimes should receive the highest rewards. You cannot produce innocence, much less merit, by grading crimes. All deserve punishment and none are entitled to reward. To reward fraud is a greater crime than to commit it, for the reward invites many commissions. Persons whose blood is thin, digestion weak and liver sluggish, are extra-liable to the attacks of malarial disease. The most trifling exposure may, under such conditions, infect a system which, if healthy, would resist the miasmatic taint. The only way to secure immunity from malaria in localities where it is prevalent, is to tone and regulate the system by improving weakened digestion, enriching the blood, and giving a wholesome impetus to biliary secretion. These results are accomplished by nothing so effectively as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which long experience has proved to be the most reliable safeguard against fever and ague and kindred disorders, as well as the best remedy for them. The Bitters are, moreover, an excellent invigorant of the organs of urination, and an active depurent, eliminating from the blood those serid impurities which originate rheumatic ailments.

FOR THE CURE CT Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPERMA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

DAIN in the right side, under the I edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sen-sation of having left undone some-thing which ought to have been done, A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensa-tion of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER. DR. C. McLane's Liver Pills, in CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this for all bilious derange ents, and as

DR. M. W. CASE'S Liver Remedy BLOOD PURIFIER Tonic and Cordial.

This is not a patent medicine, but is prepared under the direction of Dr. M. W. Case, from his favorite prescription, which in an extensive practice of over twenty-soren years he has found most effective in all cases of disordered liver of impure blood. It is ANTI-BILIOUS.

It acts directly upon the liver, restoring it when diseased to its normal condition; and is regulating the activity of this great gland every other oran of the system is benefited. In Blood Diseases it has no equal as a purifier. It improves digestion, and assists nature to eliminate all impurities from the system; and while it is the chtapest medicine in the market, it is also superior to all known remedies. While it is more effectual than Blue Mars, it is mild and perfectly safe, containing nothing that can in the alightest degree injure the system. It does not select or give pain; neither does it weaken in patient, nor leve the system constipated, as do most other medicines.

It CUICS Liver Complaint, Dyspectic Control of the Court of the control of the control of the control of the control of the Blood Diseases, Worms, Fever and Ague, and Condition of the Bowels.
